Fat cells called adipocytes store energy from the food we eat. They also burn energy when the body needs fuel.